Read more blog KOA App For Your Koa Latest What Is Important To Your Family Reconciliation? If arranging activities for children, amenities such as hot showers and a comfortable location are appealing, the KOA (Kampgrounds of America) camping experience may be ideal for you. My family had not thought, or even heard, of KOA until last summer. We ￼The staff Booking.com were very friendly and helpful. I don't want to risk that, in front of him, this guy's camp would be available, our only choice was at the KOA Olympic party, in Port Angeles. The staff were very friendly and about the staff, and the hotel was very friendly and subject. Because it was only a few days we gave him a go. Now we've turned. It is worth noting that KOA campsites are not ideal for any family. Most do not offer the kind of solitary tent sites that you can find in a country park camp. And since KOA campgrounds have free wifi, you need to make more deliberate efforts to disconnect. But especially for families with young children, comfort and fun factor in KOA camping may be welcome tradeoffs. What to expect from KOA camping All KOA campsites are family-owned and run, with owners living on site. THE KOA grew from its humble beginnings on the banks of the Yellowstone River in the 1960s (interestingly, its beginning was related to the 1962 Seattle World's Fair) franchise of almost 500 campsites across the U.S. and Canada. Campsites adhere to strict cleanliness and repair standards, so you can expect a clean toilet and hot shower. While the two KOA campgrounds are identical, they all include the following features: Toilets for Hot Water and Showers in Fire Pits and Picnic Tables Laundry Facilities General Stores for Convenience Items and Camping Accessories Pet-Friendly Policy Playgrounds Wifi Fee tent sites typically range from $23-$45 per night; you can play another $10 sites for water and electricity. RV sites cost between $35-$60 per night. Comfort for parents Camping with young children can easily cause unexpected mishaps. A previous camping trip left me struggling to wash a sleeping bag in the shower, so the laundry room at our KOA camp was a welcome relief. Most KOA campsites offer additional home comforts, including sink rooms for washing dishes, swimming pools and hot tubs, a games room, shared food heating facilities. Some rooms even have cafés or snack bars. If you're traveling with pets, most sites have a free leash dog park; some even provide pet day care. The camps also offer adult activities such as wine tasting and an adult-only hot tub. In addition to tent camping: Camping cabins and more Whether you are an experienced tent camper or RV owner, KOA can accommodate all needs. If you want to eliminate the quarrel with the pitching tent, try the KOA camping cabin. One- and two-bedroom camping cabins with a full electric range priced from $65-$120 per night (comparable to yurts at state parks). Camping chalets koa. Photo credit: Jeff DowDeluxe cabins for bathrooms and kitchens range from $92-$250 a night. Most cabins are pet-friendly, but they don't book soon. We stayed in the basic two-bedroom camping cabin during our school spring break this year. There was a lot of room in our family way and with our dog, and with lighting, power and portable boilers, we had no mercy elements. Fun for kids: From monster bikes pools most KOA campsites are located near popular natural attractions and country parks. But if you don't feel like venturing away from your home base, the KOA camp will provide plenty of activities to occupy the kids. Some are available all year round; others, such as swimming pools, are seasonal. In peak season expect planned kids activities such as crafts, movie nights, hayrides, ice cream socials, bingo and competitions. My kids loved entering the poster competition and each entry received a comment and a small award. You're riding a monster bike at the KOA in Port Angeles. Photo credit: Rachel McClaryEven without planned activities, the kids enjoy themselves. On a recent koa-top trip, my kids spent hours making new friends in the playground. How to book a KOA campsite in Washington state and outside Koa that offers online and phone booking in advance. Online booking is available for dates for the current calendar year and sometimes for the next season. (See the news section for individual campsites for warnings about when prebookings will become available.) KOA membership is not required, but sign up rewards card to save 10 percent each night you stay. Amenities and services appear on each item with an asterisk rating and a link to the individual camp website. Star ratings are based on questionnaires sent to guests at the end of their stay; and used to select the best, award-winning KOA sites. For planning, the KOA website includes maps, route planners and the ability to save your preferred campsites to your account. Before browsing campsites online, you can download a directory of KOA campsites for a quick overview. Tip: Last-minute bookings are generally more readily available than in state parks, but the most popular sites, especially those near national parks, fill quickly during the summer months so booking ahead is recommended. 5 major KOA campsite in Washington state on 1 January 2015. Ellensburg KOA Set on the Yakima River, this award-winning KOA is a great base camp for fishing, rafting or enjoying the local scenery. You can even add Gorge amphitheater. Koa has forested areas, some directly by the river and cosy Delux (air-conditioned) cabins. It features a swimming pool, bicycle rental and a playground for children to be happy. 2. LeavenworthPine Village This KOA is open all year round and has a number of cabin options. It is located at the foot of the Cascade Mountains amid 30 acres of pine trees, forest flowers and grass-throwers, with the River Wenatchee running next door, a place for recreation and relaxation. The free weekend shuttle (seasonal) to Leavenworth's Bavarian village makes shopping and dining easy. Children can enjoy the playground, swimming pool, bicycle rental, movie nights, tie dye and activities. The on-site coffee bar serves espresso, ice cream, fresh smoothies or even breakfast during the summer months. 3. The Olympic Peninsula/Port Angeles Olympic Peninsula KOA (where we've matured) is the perfect vantage point from which to explore the Olympic National Park (celebrating the NPS for centuries this year). Explore forests, glaciers, hot springs, lakes, waterfalls and the Olympic Mountain Range, with majestic peaks visible in the campsite. This camping hosts fun activities during peak season, such as evening movies, hay rides, tie-dye craft, monster bike riding and outdoor recreation. The hosts are full of energy and enthusiasm. There is also a swimming pool, a hot tub, a convenience store, a games room, mini golf and a playground. 4. Winthrop/North Cascades National Park Best camp in Washington maybe even North America! The owners are the salt of the land!, said one guest since 2015. This award-winning KOA is located in winthrop, an old-west mining town, on the Methow River. The surrounding mountains and forest make it an ideal place for hiking, horse riding, mountain biking or kayaking. A free daily shuttle to the city is available and friendly staff can provide expert guided services. Children like a Western-style playground, a springboard, a silver queen mine and a heated pool. 5. Lynden /Bellingham If you love to be entertained, this is KOA for you. Guests can enjoy 3 fishing ponds, paddles, mini golf, games room, pool and beach volleyball. Campers celebrate fun events such as Mardi Gras, Western Days, s'mores parties, barbecues and themed dances. On sunny days, you can enjoy breathtaking scenery from the San Juan Islands to Baker Mountain. Koa camping amenities should allow you to travel lightly. Keep packing simple and focus on three main categories: shelter, food and clothing. Make the list down and keep important items labeled in the camping box, which you can grab easily. Don't pack too many clothes if you can always use laundry on site. Make sure you pack warm clothes in the evenings and in the morning. If you have a dog make sure you are carrying a strap like all dogs should be kept on a leash at all times. Keep your food choices simple. Many of the main items are available in the convenience store. Note: This article was in 2018. 2018.
